WANTED-A leader. Apply to Fort Worth.

THE GAZETTE'S great scholarship contest goes marching on. The scholarship will be an honor worth winning, and the young ladies evidently appreciate the fact.

QUAY is to resign as chairman of the Republican executive committee and Dudley as treasurer. One campaign with those ducks in charge is as much as even the Republicans can stand.

WHENEVER and wherever an Alliance is found indorsing the sub-treasury scheme, it is also found indorsing the alien land law. The alien land law is a part of the sub-treasury plot.

DESTITUTION in Germany is increasing among the poor. Bread is becoming dearer, and potatoes have risen to four times their usual price. The young kaiser, nevertheless, continues to enjoy himself without thought of cost, and the army is not reduced.

PEOPLE who advocate the alien land law in its present shape seem utterly unable to comprehend the opposition to it. No man opposes a law to prevent alien land-holding, but thousands oppose a law which goes far beyond the one object desired by all and opposed by none.

THE Austin Statesman grows violent in language. Don't do it, Charley; it may do for a day, but in the end it is disaster. Take an old friend's advice. based upon experience. People whose patronage and favor are essential to permanent newspaper life and success grow very weary of any newspaper that is violent of speech.

FROM Glasgow comes the news that Andrew Carnegie is to settle down in Scotland, the land of his nativity. Carnegie has made a great fortune in this country by making steel rails and selling them at bigh-tariff prices, and now he goes to Scotland to enjoy the spending of it. This is by its friends called the "American system."

THERE is a man in San Antonio who should be hired by the Waco Day, no matter how high he may come. He is the city attorney of San Antonio, and he writes as an official opinion that a recent case decided by the supreme court was not properly adjudicated. If the Day will eatch him and put him in the cage with its constitutional expounder, the supreme court and the state's attorney-general will take to the woods when the animals roar.

A KANSAS man is running this advertisement in a New York paper: REAL ESTATE—For any Confederate bonds with coupons attaced, issued during the war. Address H. D. Hooge, Topeka, Kan.,

Confederate bonds may be a very fair exchange for Kansas real estate, but about the only basis of exchange that could be made of such bonds for Texas real estate would be to value them as so much old paper to paper a wall with. Texas land is worth money.

LIVESTOCK dealers and raisers will find the daily livestock reports of THE GAZETTE invaluable to them. Actual sales are reported daily from St. Louis and Chicago by wire. These sales reports are sent to THE GAZETTE with special reference to Texas, and names of sellers, number of cattle and prices realized are all given. Livestock men should examine THE GAZETTE'S re-

IF the people of Fort Worth want anything they must work for it. They cannot sit still and expect others to work for them. Other towns are at work and are organized for work. while Fort Worth is not. The result is that Fort Worth gets left, and will continue to get left until its people arouse themselves to the necessity of organized action, get together and go to work intelligently. The Chamber of Commerce is the nucleus, but it is left to struggle along in a feeble way, and Fort Worth hunts around for some scapegoat upon whose shoulders to lay the blame for its own inaction.

THOUGH the extuberant Hon. Ham Gossett has the discredit of the authorship of the alien land law, there are external evidences that the part he played in the matter was that of a cat'spaw. The anti-loan agency feature of the bill must have had its origin in the brains of the Alliance legislative committee, for the encouragement and promotion of the great government land toan scheme. As long as men are prohibited from borrowing money where they have been getting it, they will accept any plan that offers them relief. Mr. Gossett deserves well of the sub-treasury and land-loan chemers.

THE great state of Tennessee seems to be at the point of backing down and so randering to an armed mob of a few First of all, the administration of the hundred miners. Governor Buchanan is well-disposed to do his duty, but the sheriff of the county where the troubles lay has cravenly fled from his post of duty, and it is held by the attorneygeneral that the governor cannot legally do anything to enforce the law as long as the sheriff is absent. In such a condition of affairs the governor should have authority to remove the fugitive sheriff and appoint another, who would second his efforts for the suppression of disorder. If Jim Hogg were governor of Tennessee he would make a way for the law to assert itself.

THE New York Financial Review says: "The early movement of wheat has attracted attention and forced a steady decline in the rates of exchange. We look for a forced export of gold from England and France much earlier than ever before, if for no other reason than because the exports of wheat will be so large that gold will have to be sent in payment." Henry Clews says: "A restoration of confidence is all that is necessary for a restoration of prosperity in this country."

Stop croaking and predicting the eternal smash of everything on earth. If you have money, put it in circulation. If you have no money, at least stop croaking.

FORT WORTH has a street and alley committee that does its work well, but the city needs a sidewalk committee. The streets of Fort Worth are in splendid condition and are equal to speeding tracks, but the man who is unable to ride has no protection for his shoes or religion. Fort Worth should provide for its poor as well as its rich, and those people who will not put down sidewalks should be compelled to do so. The time for graveled sidewalks is past, and Rusk and Throckmorton should be given sidewalks equal to those on Main and Houston, and there are many streets running at right angles with those mentioned that should have stone or concrete walks. Fort Worth needs a sidewalk committee. People who ride should have attention, but so should people who walk.

AN Eastern Texas exchange, that can see nothing wrong in the alien land law, says: "While the west and northwest portion of the state is being literally devoured by land sharks and speculators. East Texas is entirely overlooked. Here we have the richest mineral ores in the world, an inexhaustible supply of timber, as fine water as can be desired by reasonable humanity, and a soil, if properly cultivated, that will vield to the husbandman large returns for his labor. Grapes, fruits and vegetables grow to perfection."

Nevertheless, with all of these attractions, the land sharks and speculators "overlook" such desirable lands and go to West and Northwest Texas to "devour" the country.

When a speculator buys land he does it to profit by an expected advance in value. He is pretty apt to know, from familiar signs, where this advance is going to take place. There he plants his money. He has little use for a country that offers no prospect of advancement. That is why he passes by East Texas and goes to West Texas. He knows West Texas is growing and is bound to keep on growing, if given a fair chance. The course of empire is ever westward.

SELFISHNESS UNPROFITABLE.

The people of Fort Worth may as well take this truth to heart. Whenever men seek their own aggrandizement as an object independent of the progress of the town, they will fail to help themselves or the town. In the growth of Fort Worth is growth for all who have interests in Fort Worth, and those have prospered most who have been wise enough to realize this fact. Some men have in their selfish ambitions sought to benefit themselves regardless of the general progress, and these men have not only failed to benefit themselves but have actually injured themselves by selfish disregard of others. Fort Worth is too small yet for this kind of work-the people of this city must act together for the general good and be contented with whatever of individual advantage comes to them as an incident of this general progress. Any other policy at this stage of Fort Worth's growth is financial felo de se.

The way to promote Fort Worth's growth is a very simple one: devise ways and means that will advance the city without regard to wards or street." or "sides," and in the general progress thus attained all wards and streets and 'sides" will share. Envies, jealousies and bickerings belong to narrow-minded people, and a man who cannot see to himself unless he gets the lion's share is sure, soon or late, to come to grief-and if the town is ruled by such a spirit, it will not progress and no one will be benefited.

NEED FOR INVESTIGATION.

Two years and a half of Republican rule under a pious and God-fearing president have impressed the whole people with the absolute need for a thorough investigation of certain departments of the Harrison administration. It is suspected, and the suspicion amounts almost to absolute conviction. that unblushing frauds, unheard-of rascalities and general demoralization abound in high places, and that it was time the light was turned on them. Democrats and Independents of all classes demand an investigation, and Republican leaders look for and expect it. Everybody knows as if by intuition that the next house of representatives is to be first of all an investigating loody.

pension office will be examined. Com missioner Raum will be given a chance to explain a great many things that the people suspect are tainted with fraud and corruption. The pension office is become the financial maelstrom of the government, into whose overwhelming vortex increasing millions of the people's money are being swept almost daily. In its unhallowed precincts are found swarms of those unclean birds of prey called pension sharks, and others that live off of them, all snatching and grabbing and filling their ugly maws with the people's substance. Mr. Raum must and will be investigated. He knows it is coming, and so does Harrison, and yet he has the boldness to say that in the next twelve months he expects to grant pensions on 350,000 original applications on file. That is to say in one year from date he will grant more than half as many pensions as have been granted in the twenty-five years that have elapsed since the war. His reason for rushing business at that rate is that he wishes to get rid of the large force of clerks in the office, and so cut down expenses! A brilliant idea that. Millions on top of millions are to be squandered in order that Raum may effect a saving in clerk hire! That is statesmanship with a vengeance. The real reason doubtless for this wholesale plundering is the fear that there will be a change of rulers at the next presidential election and that the Republicans may never again get a chance to plunge their hands into the national treasury, or enact any more pension legislation. After Raum comes the Wanamaker, whose character as a man has been badly smirched in the Keystone bank steal of Philadelphia. He will be investigated also, and the true inwardness of his relations with the rotten concern made known. If the next house of representatives does not make Raum and Wanamaker wish that they had spent their lives in herding sheep instead of seeking fame in rotten statesmanship, the country will be fearfully disappointed.

WHEN EGGUES FALL OUT, ETC.

There is a war between the Woolen manufacturers' association and the Wool-growers' association. The former has its headquarters in New England, the latter in Ohio. The Wool-growers' association really consists of three men, Delano, Lawrence and Harpster. The two associations got together and fixed up the wool and woolen goods tariff schedules of the McKinley bill. As they fixed them, so did they appear in the bill, and so are they now. They got what they wanted, or thought they did. Of course, it is needless to say that the tariff was advanced in both wool and woolen goods. The three Ohio shepherds were not becoming millionaires fast enough, and insisted on more protection-not for themselves, O, dear no, but for the farmers of the nation, who were being ground down by the pauper wool of South Africa, La Plata and Australia. Well, they got what they asked for, that is, a stiff vance in the wool tariff. As they could not get it without the consent of the woolen manufacturers, the latter were subsidized with an increase also, which quieted their Puritan consciences mightily.

For some reason the increased wool tariff had an effect quite the contrary from that anticipated. Instead of going up the price of domestic wool has steadily gone down. The disappointment to the three shepherds of Ohio is a sore one. They charge it all to the duplicity and bad faith of the woolen men of New England, who in spite of the increased tariff, continue to buy foreign pauper wool in increasing quantities. They refuse to "whack up" with the shepherds, and allow them their share of the spoils. In other words, the thieves have fallen out, though the rest of the proverb is not being fulfilled. Judge Lawrence, president of the Wool Growers' association, has written a public letter charged with dynamite for the woolen men, demanding a total prohibition of imports of foreign wool, and in order to be revenged on the perfidious New Englanders, urges the business men of Cincinnati to get together, raise two or three millions and set up a system of woolen mills that will rob New England of her supremacy in that field of industry.

Here is a fine illustration of the plundering knavery of the McKinley tariff. Log-rolling conspiracies are organized and the tariff is fixed on certain schedules for certain interests. The conspirators don't pull together. and their explosions of wrath at each other expose the consummate villainy of the whole thing.

The woolgrowers now want to stop any further importation of wool, so as to compel the home market to purchase their wool at their own prices. As they grow only four and one-half of the ten pounds per capita of wool needed for home consumption, more than half the population would have to go naked if their plans were carried out. But what is that to the ram-raisers and merino statesmen of the wool cabal? If it would make Crossuses of them, they would be willing to see the whole people clad in nothing but sheep skins. That is the sort of statesmanship in which they believe, and which millions of unreflecting blockheads have followed for years, until now the land is filled with poverty, debts, and a swarm of political reform parties, composed in the main of simpletons who swear by the tariff.

A Tariff for Revenue Only. DENTON, TEX., July 21, 1891.

Editor Gazette. In your issue of this morning you state that the phase, "a tariff for revenue only," is first found in the Democratic national platform of 1880. You are certainly mis-taken. It was first used in the Democratic national platform of 1876, the year that the immortal Samuel J.Tilden defeated Rutherimmortal Samuel J. Tiden defeated Ruther-ford B. Hayes, but was "swindled out" of the presidency by the returning boards of Louisiana and South Carolina, assisted by such shining lights in the Republican party as James A. Garfield and John Sherman. Yours truly, O. P. Poe.

Midlothian Visitor. The Fort Worth Daily GAZETTE now reaches us every morning at 8:40. It is one of the greatest papers in the South, and is much admired. Its editorial utterances are strong and able, and it is not afraid to as-sert its opinions of men or measures. It gives good and sound reasons for the faith it professes. AN INJURED HUSBAND FILLS HIS RIVAL WITH SHOT.

A. B. Stevens Admitted to Bail-The Police and Firemen Were on Duty. Adulterated Milk Conviction.

Special to the Gazette Dallas, Tex., July 22.—William Ander-son, a negro strong in frame, young in years and lusty-looking, lies on a cot in the hospital ward of the county jail with his hide perforated with coarse sized birdshot. He was arrested at Grand Prairie this afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Frank Darby and brought to this city and a charge of rape entered against him. Anderson has eighty small holes in his frame, and each one represents a shot. His story is as follows: Near Grand Prairie resides a negro who boasts of a buxom wife among his pos-sessions, Mrs. David Smith, by name. The woman and Anderson loved, and last night or an early hour this morning Anderson vis-ited the home of the woman. Her husband, Tom Smith, occupied another room, The roise attracted the attention of the Anderson fled, leaving his hat and shoes behind. At noon to-day Ander-son returned to the house for his shoes and hat. A crowd of negroes caught him, tied him to a fence and gave him a sound whipnim to a fence and gave him a sound whip-ping, afterwards turning him loose. Ander-son struck down the rairoad in the vicinity of Arlington, and when within a mile of that place Smith appeared on the scene with a double-barreled shotgun. He planted the contents in the carcass of his rival and then took to the woods. Anderson will die. Deputy Sheriff Darby is in the Grand Prairie neigh borhood scouting for the injured husband with the double-barreled gun.

A. B. Stevens, a farmer of Richardson, was admitted to ball in the sum of $750 to-day. He is charged with incest with his daughter, Lavonia, who is only sixteen years of age. Zeb Davis, charged with burglarizing the Dallas elevator, escaped the pen by a cratch. The indictment alleged that had stolen from a corporation created and doing business by authority of the laws of Texas." The elevator is working under a Michigan charter, hence the in dictment was quashed and the prisoner re cased. Henry Stevens, a negro charged with perjury, was acquitted by the jury. Stella Lewis, a pretty little wo-nan, obtained a divorce from Sam L. Lewis, and William Louschow filed suit for a divorce from his wife Nettle. In the first case cruelty and non-support caused the rupture, and in the second case it is alleged that the wife has fallen by the way-
